Uttaran

A Community-driven Journey towards Prosperity

Director's Message

A Society with Caste, Class and Gender Equality, a vision that started 35 years ago from a small village in one of the most Climate vulnerable regions, Satkhira, Bangladesh. 35 years ago, these words were just a mere hope, but now it is turning into a reality. Another year has passed with many ups and downs. COVID-19 has changed how the world functions with its strong grasp on the whole population. Many have suffered tremendously, many faced untimely deaths. I would like to take this opportunity to express my condolences to the bereaved families. I would also like to thank the hardworking staff of Uttaran, especially our younger colleagues and volunteers who did not back down in the face of COVID-19 and continued to support the vulnerable communities. The community, still reeling from the devastating impact of Cyclone Amphan, were hit hard during the COVID-19 lockdown. On top of that, the staggering reality of climate change has been making the lives of the vulnerable communities extremely difficult and with increased and intensified disasters. The massive fire incident in Balukhali Rohingya Camp is another tragic incident that affected a huge number of people and required our immediate assistance.

Despite the challenges, Uttaran stood diligently beside the communities of Satkhira, Khulna, Jashore, Cox's Bazar with both its humanitarian and development interventions. I would like to thank all employees and volunteers of Uttaran, our valuable donors and partners and most importantly our dynamic and resilient community. I would also like to thank all government officials in our working area for their strong cooperation in helping us to reach more people. With all of our concerted effort, a brighter and better future for our country as well as Uttaran is not very far.

However, currently the situation is taking a turn for the worse as COVID-19 cases are again on the rise. Uttaran is already on the ground collaborating with Community Based Organisations and Volunteer groups to provide oxygen support for the underprivileged COVID-19 patients.

I remain hopeful that we will be able to overcome this challenge with our strength and dedication. Uttaran will continue to serve the community and help build an inclusive society through equipping the disadvantaged people with the tools needed to deal with their social, environmental, health, economic and cultural issues and concerns.

About Uttaran

Uttaran, which means 'transition', in Bangla language has been living up to its name through a myriad of development interventions since 1985 from Jatpur village of Tala upazila under Satkhira district to uphold the rights of the poor and underprivileged. The organization was founded with the aim of building a society free from all inequalities where everyone can access and is aware of their basic rights. Being a people centred organization, Uttaran has been using a rights-based approach to alleviate poverty, diversify livelihood opportunities and empower poor communities throughout the southwest region with gradual expansion to other parts of the country. For the last 35 years Uttaran has been working for the most inaccessible and vulnerable districts such as Satkhira, Jashore, Khulna, Bagerhat, Barisal, Bhola, Barguna, Patuakhali, Feni, Noakhali, Laksmipur, Jamalpur and Cox's Bazar. In 2020-2021, with an annual expenditure of BDT. 939,879,107 Uttaran was able to directly benefit 300,100 households concentrating specially on the landless, underprivileged women, outcastes and untouchables who are victims of socio-economic classification, hierarchic caste system and a male-dominated society. Through a network of 48 offices, one training centre with well-developed communications and operating procedures along with 515 experienced and highly qualified staff and 1,120 volunteers, Uttaran has strong credibility among the communities and as well as the Government of Bangladesh.

Rights, Gender and Social Justice

Uttaran has been working to ensure the constitutional and societal rights of the extreme poor, women, landless, untouchable, and religio-ethnic minor communities by equipping them with the tools to have a stronger voice in the decision-making process and societal power structure. The poverty situation for the districts and upazilas in Khulna division shows an extremely dismal picture. Uttaran's study revealed that, 27% population of Southwest region of Bangladesh own less than 10 decimals of land. These people live below the extreme poverty line and have the lowest per capita income in the world. The Covid-19 pandemic has also increased the vulnerability of such underprivileged groups making women and girls more prone to domestic, sexual and physical violence. The already existing societal inequality has exacerbated and families are resorting to various negative coping strategies. In this regard Uttaran since its inception started Rights, Gender and Social Justice Programme to protect the constitutional and societal rights and ensure justice for the underprivileged communities of the Society. In recent times the actions taken under this program are tremendously helping the communities to cope with their current volatile condition induced by the Pandemic.

Hitampur Women Fisherfolk Cooperatives Association: The First Ever Women Fisherfolk Association in Bangladesh

Hitampur village of Paikgacha Upazila has a big community of fisherfolk where 23 families who are dependent on fish, shrimp and crab farming live side by side. The women of these families are fisherfolk too.

Watching these women's perseverance and solidarity, Uttaran suggested them to register for a fisherfolk association so that they can legally lease jalmahals and access their rights as authentic fisherfolks. Uttaran took the responsibility of completing all kinds of paperwork and other prerequisites such as renting an office space, collecting required documents and running to and fro from one government office to another. The District Cooperative officer who was also a woman helped them as much as she could. Finally, by working together, these great women overcame all challenges and found the Hitampur Women Fisherfolk Association. On June 8, 2021, after much hard work and anticipation the Government finally allotted 24.25 acres of Jolmahal in their name for 3 years. These women are now adding a greater value to their families, have better bargaining power and possess more control over their resources. They are looking forward to more opportunities and prosperity .

Anna Secures her Rights

Anna Begum used to live in her neighbor's property with her paralyzed husband and two children. She lived a miserable life as she was always ashamed to depend upon other peoples' mercy. Poverty was a curse that spread it's web all over her life, making her feel trapped and suffocated. Then she became a member of marginalized land less primary organization under the Asserting Marginalized Access to Rights-AMAR project of Uttaran. Anna was not aware about her rights and did not know how to access Governments' various services.

Through Uttaran's support she was finally able to get shelter and 2 decimal of land from Government's Ashrayan 2 project in Atulia Union. Since then her life has changed for the better and she and her family are living a secured and happy life.

Food Security and Nutrition

The people of Bangladesh have come a long way in terms of Food security and Nutrition but unfortunately the coastal communities continue to suffer from food security and inadequate nutrition due chronic and frequent disasters, poor planning and impacts of climate change. All over the coast women especially pregnant and lactating mothers still heavily suffers from poor diet and adequate nutrition. Furthermore, stunting among children remains above 28% and the situation is much worst in the coastal areas.

In the past two decades the Bangladesh has seen rapid economic growth and increased agricultural productivity, but unfortunately agricultural productivity in climate vulnerable regions across Bangladesh are getting severely hampered by the new wave of disasters. Undernourishment and severe food insecurity appear to be increasing in almost all over the coast especially in Southwest Coastal districts.

Uttaran with 36 years long experience has been working to End hunger, achieve food security and improved nutrition and promote sustainable agriculture assisting the Government of Bangladesh and partners. Along with the national targets Uttaran looks forward to end hunger by 2030

Modern Farming Techniques Changing the Lives of the Local Farmers

Bijaya, like many other local farmers, used to farm haphazardly and did not know how to choose quality seeds. She had very low yield and barely sustained her family as concepts such as market linkage, business plan, profit management was completely unknown to her. After joining one of our producers groups she learned and adopted modern farming techniques. To maximize gains from farming we also helped farmers like her with individual business plans and provided market linkage facilities. Bijaya's earning has now dramatically increased, and she was able to build her own house, install a tube well, diversify her income sources and even buy 50 decimals of land for more production. Her current vivid life is a testimony to her success and hard work. Like her, around 50,000 farmers are now embracing modern farming technologies and innovative and exclusive business plans with Uttaran's help and lifting themselves out of poverty.

Disaster and Humanitarian action

Due to its unique geographical location and huge population Bangladesh is highly susceptible to natural disasters. For the past decade climate change along with poor planning and infrastructure have made disasters more frequent and intense. Uttaran being a grass root organization from the Coast have been assisting underprivileged vulnerable communities to be more disaster resilient, climate adaptive and reduce the risk of disasters. During times of emergency Uttaran with its specialized disaster risk reduction team consisting of 70 highly experienced staff and nearly 500 volunteers are one of first NGOs to respond due to its strong physical response all over the coastal region of Bangladesh. Since 2010, Uttaran has responded to all major disasters reaching over 38,00,000 people in the coastal districts of Bangladesh. On top of the prolonged impact of Amphan, South-west Bangladesh is currently crumbling under the new COVID-19 onslaught as infection rate was again on the rise. Uttaran has been tirelessly fighting the COVID-19 crisis in South-West Bangladesh through free oxygen support, ambulance service and telemedicine assistance collaborating with youth groups and like minded organisations.

A Miracle for All

In the coastal regions, tube well installation is a complex issue where a lot of things need to be kept in mind. For example, there remains a huge uncertainty whether or not the water will be actually drinkable due to the increasing salinity in groundwater. Such was the case of this particular neighbourhood in Assasunni upazila where Kodbanu Bibi lives. Everyday women like Kodbanu Bibi walks on foot for over an hour to collect drinking water from a faraway mosque. Kodbanu has a family of seven and she was responsible for collecting their drinking water every day. Most days they ran out of water and Kodbanu ended up drinking the saline water from the nearby pond, leaving the fresh water for the other family members. The health-related repercussions were not unknown to her but for a woman in her 50's the challenge of carrying a 20 kg pot for an hour seemed more threatening. Under the project 'Providing Extended Humanitarian Assistance in South West Bangladesh' in association with Start Fund Bangladesh and FCDO a deep tube well was being installed in their area. The neighborhood women told us that success rate of tube wells in their area is nothing less than a gamble and that is why it was never done before. But it cannot be deemed as completely impossible and therefore they were optimistic and kept praying for the water to be drinkable. Fortunately, their prayers were answered and the water was perfectly suitable for drinking.

The fact that no women from this area will ever need to sacrifice their health so that their family can have safe water brings us immense joy while teaching us the importance of taking risks in the face of uncertainty to achieve our goals

Jainab's Dream Home

I am Jainab and I live in Kolarong village of Pochakoralia Union, Taltoli Upazila, Barguna district. I am currently 63 years old and my husband died from cancer 40 years ago leaving me to raise our two children alone. My daughter, whom I adored very much was also taken away from me by the vicious grip of cancer, the same way I lost my husband. My son works as a day labourer but he does not earn enough to take care of me. In fact, I was the one who provided for my grandson's schooling with the money I earned from begging. Currently due to my old age and weakened physical condition I can no longer walk and have to rely on my neighbours' mercy to feed myself. On top of that, my flimsy house, where I now live alone constantly worries me. Whenever any disaster strikes the condition of the house gets worse. I lay awake at night stressing that one day it will collapse on me, ending my life forever, however miserable it has been.

I barely had any money to feed myself let alone even think about repairing my house. Then one day I heard about the organization Uttaran who came to our area to inform us about a 20 day cash for work program that they will be implementing with funding from the Japan Government and assistance from UNDP. I could not be a participant of this activity due to my physical condition but hearing my misfortune they decided to help me anyway. They along with the local UP member and community decided to build a new house for me. The house might be made from wood and tin but when I look at it, I see kindness and humanity. I now feel safe at home and I now longer worry that my own house will collapse on me. As long as I live, I will feel secure under this new roof. I will be eternally grateful to Uttaran and UNDP for ensuring a secured roof over my head.

Cox's Bazar

Since 2017 thousands of Rohingya Population from Myanmar who were faced with severe violence fled to Bangladesh. Currently there are around a million of forcibly displaced Myanmar nationals (FDMNs) living in various camps in Cox's Bazar district of Bangladesh. The enormous scale of the influx is putting immense pressure on the Bangladeshi host community, local ecosystem and existing facilities and services.

Uttaran has been providing humanitarian assistance to the Rohingya community in Camps and host community people of Ukhiya and Teknaf upazilas under Cox's Bazar district since July 2018. Partnering with IOM, Islamic Relief Worldwide and Misereor, Uttaran's humanitarian response in Rohingya crisis is for both Forcibly Displaced Myanmar Nationals and the host communities that include livelihood, food and NFI distribution, Shelter up gradation and so on

Sewing her Way to Success

20-year-old Yasmin Ara lives in block G, Sun block C15 of Balukhali Camp, Cox's bazar. In such a young age Yasmin Ara has been through a great deal of turmoil. But every time she managed to come out stronger and more determined. She belongs to a big family of 10 members including her aged parents and 7 little brothers and sisters. Her family was mostly dependent on aids from different organizations and their living conditions were therefore quite subpar. In 2019 Yasmin received a sewing machine, relevant training, fabrics and other required items. She then started a business from home and used to earn 150/200 taka daily. Just when her business started to pick up, the unfortunate flashfire of 22nd March decimated their home and everything they owned including their only income source, the sewing machine. Uttaran and Misereor did not let her down. Under the project "Covid-19 Impact Mitigation for Forcibly Displaced Myanmar Nationals (FDMNs) in Cox's Bazar Camp" she received another sewing machine and other necessary equipment. Now she makes Salwar suits, masks, Burqas, thamis and dresses and earns around 6000 BDT a month. She is grateful to Uttaran and Misereor for always having her back and helping her family lead a prosperous life

Climate Change, WASH and Water Governance

Rural communities who usually have the smallest carbon footprints are unfortunately hit the hardest by climate change. Uttaran is therefore working to help and facilitate local people and government to adopt with climate change in coastal Bangladesh while educating them about safe water, hygiene and sanitation. Over the years we have developed the capacity of local government in adaptation, advocated for more sustainable solutions and provided climate vulnerable people with financial and technical capacity to adapt with climate change. Since the 1990s, Uttaran and Paani Committee had been advocating for nature-based solution to water management problem in south west and advocating to enhance the participation of local people in form water governance processes. At the same time, Uttaran have also introduced various forms of locally adopted informal water governance towards policy maker and academics and thus Tidal River Management concept was adopted which has also been identified as key strategy to mitigate water logging and climate change in south west coastal Bangladesh in the BDP 2100.

Against all Odds

“People like us are always recovering from some disaster or another. Every day is a fight. But we are no ordinary people. We are fighters and we survive”- Sharifa declares with the brightest smile

Waterlogging is huge crisis in Sharifa’s area; Machiara village of Satkhira District. For six months a year they are racked with waterlogging. On top of that, her husband’s decoration business took a nosedive during this pandemic and their sufferings increased twofold. During this protracted crisis Sharifa received a cash grant from Uttaran and decided to diversify her income sources. She bought a sewing machine and started making and selling reusable bags. Her husband bought some fishing equipment and now catches and sells fish beside running his business. As they now have different sources of income, they always have options to fall back on when things get tough.

We applaud Sharifa’s resiliency and her fighting spirit and wish her the best!

Breaking the Bias

Under our WASH Project, 53 rural schools now proudly house sanitary napkin corners to be used by girls when required. This has significantly reduced the absence rate of girl children and as a result, improved their performance during exams. Most importantly, it has taught them menstrual health is not taboo. Through this unique step and our awareness sessions on Menstrual Hygiene these girls are now well informed about the dos and don'ts of menstrual hygiene and are empowered enough to call out any incorrect social, cultural or religious restrictions regarding menstruation. The sanitary napkin corner is managed by a female teacher and safe disposal system is practiced by the students.

Education and Youth Action

Uttaran started its development intervention through establishment of a school in Jatpur village of Satkhira district in 1982. Since then, over the years Uttaran has established elementary schools, Secondary schools, College, Technical education centre, Library and also conducted Non formal primary education for many years. Till now Uttaran have supported formal education and technical education for over 265,000 students. Uttaran also runs separate activities for youth development all over the south-west coastal regions of Bangladesh. The activities focus on youth's capacity development, leadership skills, human development, social work, environmental awareness and mainstreaming youth involvement in development practices and decision making. Currently Uttaran has a volunteer group of over 1200 youth members who are engaged in various social activities all over the coastal belt. In the past few years Uttaran has also ramped up its technical education unit and has produced over 6,000 skilled workers.

Our Brave Volunteers

From the beginning of May, 2021 Covid-19 transmission rate has seen a dramatic increase in the South West region which is widely attributed to the spread of the delta variant through the neighbouring border. One of the major crisis COVID-19 patients and patients with COVID symptoms are facing is the lack of Oxygen Support. As hospitals are overwhelmed COVID-19 patients are suffering from a huge oxygen crisis with constant threat to their lives. Uttaran has established an Oxygen Bank for the people of Satkhira district. The oxygen bank now covers all the upazilas of Satkhira district and Paikgacha of Khulna district. The model is fairly new in the area and apart from Government intervention this is the first time NGOs are providing oxygen support for Covid 19 affected patients at household level. Stickers, banners and newspaper articles have been published with Uttaran's hotline number regarding Oxygen Support. All of Uttaran's social media platforms also shared these information on a regular basis. Uttaran has engaged its volunteer groups and also provided training with the support of Upazila health complex on oxygen cylinder management. Currently 40 technical volunteers are responsible for installing oxygen support system for covid 19 patients, and more than 800 volunteers are generating awareness across the district and also assisting in carrying oxygen, refilling etc. In this trying times Uttaran's volunteers and other local volunteer groups have shown amazing strength and bravery that is giving hope to everyone.

Unlocking Potential with Skill Development

23-year old muzahidul lives in Goyeshpur village of Bhomra Union of Satkhira District. Despite being from a very poor family Muzahidul had big dreams. He wanted to become a mechanical engineer. But unfortunately, he could not continue his studies after grade 7 due to the financial challenges his day laborer father faced. Muzahid had two sisters as well and therefore to support his family Muzahid started working with his father as a sharecropper from a very young age. But Muzahid's mother understood that Muzahid's dreams are different and so she encouraged him to become a mechanic. Muzahid then started working as a mechanic's apprentice, but his duties revolved around making tea and washing the vehicles. He was not being taught anything. A frustrated muzahid then joined Uttarban's Shimanto Trade Centre and after 4 months of practical and well-organized training Muzahid was prepared to fulfill his dreams. His father sold their cow and added some previous savings to help rent a shop for Muzahid and buy necessary equipment. Muzahid's shop is called 'Steel Bridge Motor Cycle Centre' gradually became a success and Muzahid was able to buy a cow and some furniture for the family and a motor bike for himself. Muzahid now dreams of having a store of his own and works hard to achieve it soon.

Integrated Rural Development

The Integrated Rural Development programme has evolved from Uttaran's earlier programme Human Development in 2006. The programme is solely aimed to end poverty and improve the quality of life for the extreme poor and underprivileged communities through holistic and integrated community development intervention. People's Forum of Uttaran

People first - all our programmes have always prioritized this idea in all our approaches and activities. Our right based approach focuses on empowering people, making them independent to claim their rights and contribute in building a more prosperous society. Our people centric approaches over the years have institutionalized marginalized and extreme poor communities to demand their rights collectively and advocate/negotiate with authorities to make development actions more participative. To bridge this gap among people, communities, civil societies and Government have led us to facilitate various people's forum. Uttaran's major strength lies in aiding these people's platforms especially in claiming the rights of landless people and ensuring participatory water governance.

People's Forum to bridge the Gap:

- Paani Committee
- Bhumi Committee
- Youth Paani Committee
- Pathok Forum
- Wildlife Mission
